

“Birds of India” is an application to educate any lay person about the different varieties of birds found in the Indian subcontinent.

Screenshots:

Main screen: Options to Explore, and About the application. The Quiz option will be enabled in the next application version.

Bird categories screen: Lists the major types of bird categories.

Clicking on one takes you to the Birds list screen – it shows the lists of birds in the clicked category.

Clicking on an individual birds opens the Bird information screen.

Here the details of the bird are shown – Common and scientific names, Description, Extinction status, and Useful link to Wikipedia.

There is also a “Sample call” button to play the Song/Call/sound of the bird for you listening pleasure!

The material in this app is derived from Wikipedia (information and pictures) and Xeno-canto (sounds).

